

B. LOW VISION SERVICES IN CALIFORNIA

ABOUT LOW VISION SERVICES

Low vision clinics provide specialized eye examinations and optical aids for people with severe visual limitations that cannot be helped by the usual corrective lenses. Light-enhancers, special glasses, magnifiers, closed circuit television, telescopes or other devices may be prescribed at these facilities.

The purpose of these low vision optical aids is to allow persons with severely limited vision the ability to use their remaining vision more efficiently. This enables them to expand and retain their independence while performing daily living activities.

After an optical aid has been prescribed, a vision care professional will give careful instruction on how to use it. Sometimes more than one optical aid will be prescribed for an individual. Before an optical aid is purchased, it will often be available to take home and use on a trial basis.

The eye examination and the low vision optical aids may be paid for by Medicare and/or the California Department of Rehabilitation. Sometimes a non-profit or other service organization will help with these costs if there is no other funding source. Some clinics or doctor's offices will handle the paper work and fill out the forms required by these funding sources for your convenience.
