The law* says: You have rights if you live in foster homes, group homes, shelters, or transitional housing facilities. The law also says social workers, probation officers and people where you live must tell you about your rights.

This law also says:

- Your social worker must talk with you about your rights at least once every six months;
- You must be told about your rights, in a way that's easy to understand;
- The people where you live must answer any questions you have about your rights;
- If six or more foster youth live in your foster home, a poster must be placed where you can see it.

Call if you think your rights are not followed – it's a free call and it won't show up on the phone bill!

This brochure is for youth in out-of-home care. It explains your rights!

- Call your lawyer:
- Every youth has a lawyer (unless a judge says you cannot). You can talk to your lawyer in private. You can tell your lawyer anything you want. Most of the time, your lawyer cannot tell anyone else what you say (except in special situations; ask your lawyer about this.) Your lawyer's job is to defend all your rights. Your lawyer can help you with:
- visits with your brothers, sisters and parents
 - questions about court or your case plan
 - problems with your social worker

Or, fill out the "Complaint Page" on our website. It's easy to do!

Problems with your lawyer or social worker?
 Ask for the name and telephone number of his/her supervisor. Call the supervisor and make a complaint.

Call CCL:
 CCL (Community Care Licensing) gives the home you live in a license to operate. You can call CCL if your home is not a healthy and safe place. You can call in private. CCL will not tell your home you called.
 1-844-538-8766

Call your Social Worker or Probation Officer:
 Their job is to make sure all your needs are taken care of. Remember, you have the right to:

- know their name and phone number
- ask for their help
- have them call you back

Remember:
What you tell us is private
(except in certain circumstances).

The Office of the State Ombudsman wishes to thank the Los Angeles Affiliate of the National Association of Counsel for Children for their pioneering efforts to inform youth of their rights in the juvenile system.

If you feel you are being discriminated against because of your sex, race, color, religion, sexual orientation, ethnic group, ancestry, national origin, gender identity, mental or physical disability or HIV status, or for any other reason, you should call the Foster Care Ombudsman Help-line for assistance.
