SUBJECT: CLIENT OUTREACH TO PROMOTE USE OF ELECTRONIC BENEFIT TRANSFER (EBT) CARDS USE AT AUTHORIZED FARMERS' MARKETS

The purpose of this notice is to encourage counties to inform recipients about local participating farmers markets that accept EBT cards. Attached is a brochure that was developed by the California Department of Health Services (DHS) that promotes the consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables, which can be customized to identify local farmers' markets that accept EBT cards. As you may know, farmers' markets provide a wide array of fresh fruits and vegetables at reasonable prices. By shopping at farmers' markets, clients can maximize their limited budgets and eat nutritious foods. Attached is a current list of the farmers' markets that accept EBT cards.

A soft copy of the customizable brochure is available on CD-ROM in English and Spanish. The attached hard copy was customized and translated into three additional languages by Alameda County. The county distributed it through a direct mailing to its Food Stamp clients. Although the CD-ROM does not include the additional languages, counties may copy the translated text from the attached brochure. In lieu of the brochures, counties may develop their own informational materials for distribution to clients.

With the elimination of food stamp coupons, clients were unable to use their EBT cards to purchase food at farmers' markets, in large part due to the lack of essential telephone service and electrical power needed to operate point-of-sale (POS) terminals for EBT. New wireless technology is now available that allows farmers' markets to accept EBT cards. California is piloting the wireless POS terminals at participating farmers' markets and produce stands authorized by the U.S.D.A. Food and Nutrition Service (FNS).

The wireless POS terminals are being tested under two situations. The first is deployment of a wireless POS device to individual farmers for use in a marketplace setting or produce stand. The second situation is deployment of a wireless POS device to farmers' market managers for shared use by a group of farmers at a single marketplace. In the latter instance, clients will go to a central location in the market and use their EBT card to pre-purchase scrip that is unique to that market. Clients will use the scrip to pay for purchases at individual farmers' stalls. At the end of the day, the farmers redeem the scrip for cash with their market manager. At the conclusion of the pilot, the State will evaluate the findings and develop policies on the deployment of the wireless POS devices and the criteria for continued farmers' markets participation.

The success of the pilot is largely dependent on the volume of recipients shopping at the markets with their EBT cards. It should be noted that New York State has had very good success with FNS-authorized farmers' markets participating in EBT. An important lesson learned from the experiences of other states is that client outreach is critical in getting food stamp recipients to shop at participating farmers markets. For EBT to be successful at participating farmers' markets, clients need to know which markets accept EBT. The attached listing identifies the farmers' markets and produce stands that are participating in the EBT pilot.

The California Department of Social Services has produced colorful signage that can be prominently displayed at the farmers' markets to show they accept EBT cards. Counties are encouraged to work with their local farmers' markets to conduct client outreach.

The following outreach efforts are currently underway in the state:

1. The City and County of San Francisco has designated a single point of contact, Ms. Ylonda Calloway, Food Stamp Program Support Analyst, to actively work with farmers to help them through the paperwork needed for participation in the EBT pilot. Ms. Calloway is also overseeing client outreach efforts in her county. She is available as a resource to other counties that are interested in modeling San Francisco County's efforts. She can be reached by telephone at (415) 558-4153 or by electronic mail at Ylonda.Calloway@sfgov.org.
2. Ms. Penny Leff, market manager for the Berkeley Ecology Center Farmers' Market, received a grant to conduct workshops with farmers' market associations around the state to increase the number of farmers' markets participating in the EBT pilot project. She previously received a grant from DHS to develop and distribute the attached brochure in Alameda County.
3. Ms. Carolyn Nordstrom, EBT Project Benefit Access Manager for the State EBT Project, maintains a statewide listing of all the FNS-authorized farmers' markets that are participating in the EBT pilot project. She can provide counties with periodic updated information on newly-authorized markets that are participating in EBT. Ms. Nordstrom can be reached by telephone at (916) 263-4135 or by email at Carolyn.Nordstrom@sid.hhsdc.ca.gov.

If you have any questions regarding this letter, please contact Stan Cagle, Manager, EBT and Welfare Technology Unit, at (916) 654-1529. To receive a free CD-ROM of the customizable brochure, please contact Ms. Dianne Padilla-Bates at (916) 653-4390.
